

Prevention Advisor

News That Aquatic Professionals Need To Know

Issue 5, July 2008

Quick Hits

New @ www.nspf.org:
A bilingual twin to the National Swimming Pool Foundation® (NSPF®) website is now available at www.nspf.org/espanol

Registration is now open for the 2008 World Aquatic Health™ Conference in Colorado Springs! Take advantage of early registration discounts and sign up today!
Click here!

Electrical Safety Work Practices and Standards (NFPA 70E) online training course. Features a section on Article 680 of the NFPA code for swimming pools and spas. Click here!

Seven Tips for Safer Swimming

The Centers for Disease Control and many state and local health departments are encouraging pool patrons to be proactive about recreational water illness and safety at the pools they visit. Pool operators should be aware that these announcements are going out to the public and should be prepared to address the patron's questions. If you welcome the inquiries, you have an opportunity to show your knowledge (by showing your certificate, daily log charts, posted signage, etc).

Above is an example of what consumers are receiving. The consumer document can be downloaded at www.nspf.org. Familiarizing yourself with these consumer tips will prepare you for the "activist swimmer" when they visit your pool.

